[4] This figure will reduce if the fund increases in size: £50,000 of fixed costs over £10m = 0.50% but only 0.05% over £100m. We are targeting total cost of ownership of the fund as close as possible to 1%.

[5] The fund normally only buys and sells positions once a month to keep trading costs as low as possible. This figure was calculated in collaboration with Cantor Fitzgerald and significantly lower than many UK platforms assume.

The investment objective of the Fund is to provide capital growth over the medium to long term. The Fund will aim to meet its objectives by employing two primary investment techniques:

1. True diversification which may include exposure to equities, fixed income, commodities, real estate and infrastructure in different jurisdictions throughout the world, primarily using Exchange Traded Funds.
2. Formula-based trend following.

Monthly Commentary (February 2020)

Anyone following financial markets in any meaningful way will know by now that February 2020 was the most brutal month for many markets in some years. Fears about US / China trade relations were relegated to the second division as the coronavirus outbreak took over and had a very significant negative impact on many financial markets by the end of the month (and an even more pronounced impact so far this month as most readers will no doubt be aware). The S&P 500 was down 8.2% by month end and oil plummeted by more than 13%. Our trades in the month took us out of developed Asian equities and Latin American emerging markets and also out of our Agriculture and Energy ETFs and bought into dollar corporate, high yield and emerging market government bonds and US real estate. This was certainly helpful in limiting the sheer scale of losses in equity and commodity markets as the month went on, but we were still down 3.2% by the end of the month – our worst ever month.

As I write, March has been even worse for financial markets but I am happy to report that the fund recovered somewhat in the first few days and, crucially, our signals took us out of all equity markets such that the fund is currently positioned more than 70% in cash or cash equivalents. We are down just over 4% since the beginning of the year vs. many markets which are down more like 20%.

For more detail on this, please see my recent email: “The Turmoil and the Tortoise” and I will give more detail about the defensive trades we made at the start of March in our next monthly commentary.

Key Risks

- Counterparty risk: The Fund can conclude various transactions with contractual partners. If a contractual partner becomes insolvent, it can no longer or can only partly settle unpaid debts owed to the Fund.
a wide selection of Exchange Traded Funds which themselves own many hundreds of underlying assets.
- Market Risk: External factors can cause an entire asset class to decline in value which would result in a decrease in the value of investments. The Fund aims to mitigate this risk by investing in all major asset classes in many geographic regions and owning assets which are often negatively correlated.
Liquidity Risk: adverse market conditions may affect the ability to sell certain assets when necessary. The Fund invests nearly exclusively in large, liquid ETFs so liquidity risk should be significantly lower than in a more conventional actively managed fund investing in single assets.
- Concentration Risk: The Fund seeks to minimise concentration risk by owning
