[4] This figure will reduce if the fund increases in size: £50,000 of fixed costs over £10m = 0.50% but only 0.05% over £100m. We are targeting total cost of ownership of the fund as close as possible to 1%.

[5] The fund normally only buys and sells positions once a month to keep trading costs as low as possible. This figure was calculated in collaboration with Cantor Fitzgerald and significantly lower than many UK platforms assume.

The investment objective of the Fund is to provide capital growth over the medium to long term. The Fund will aim to meet its objectives by employing two primary investment techniques:

1. True diversification which may include exposure to equities, fixed income, commodities, real estate and infrastructure in different jurisdictions throughout the world, primarily using Exchange Traded Funds.
2. Formula-based trend following.

Monthly Commentary (January 2020)

In early December we sold out of nine positions (please see last month's factsheet for details). This was in reaction to some pretty significant falls in various financial markets towards the end of November and left the fund quite defensively positioned with about 55% of our capital in cash and risk-free cash equivalent funds. In the end, markets rallied strongly through December as the risk of a full-blown China vs. US trade war seemed to recede. As a result, our moving-average driven signals at the beginning of January gave us eight buy orders, seven of which put us back into the assets we had sold a month before. This is slightly frustrating but will happen from time to time and is a small price to pay for the significant downside protection the strategy affords as a result of such trades. Better to be safe than sorry when downside protection is the foundation stone of your strategy. The result of those trades was that the fund was quite "risk-on" again, particularly given we were then long of all of our equity silos in developed and emerging markets. This meant that we suffered somewhat at the very end of the month when the coronavirus scare knocked emerging markets nearly 5% and commodities more than 7% with the result that we were down 1.3% in the month. Happily, markets seem to have shrugged off these concerns and we are up 1.69% so far in February as markets have bounced across the board.

Key Risks

- Counterparty risk: The Fund can conclude various transactions with contractual partners. If a contractual partner becomes insolvent, it can no longer or can only partly settle unpaid debts owed to the Fund.
a wide selection of Exchange Traded Funds which themselves own many hundreds of underlying assets.
- Market Risk: External factors can cause an entire asset class to decline in value which would result in a decrease in the value of investments. The Fund aims to mitigate this risk by investing in all major asset classes in many geographic regions and owning assets which are often negatively correlated.
Liquidity Risk: adverse market conditions may affect the ability to sell certain assets when necessary. The Fund invests nearly exclusively in large, liquid ETFs so liquidity risk should be significantly lower than in a more conventional actively managed fund investing in single assets.
- Concentration Risk: The Fund seeks to minimise concentration risk by owning
