- (2) MSCI World Index in Sterling, net dividends reinvested, priced at close of business US time, source: MSCI Inc. The MSCI World Index is a generic portfolio of global equities across all sectors and, as such, is a fair comparison given the Fund is also global and sector agnostic.

- (4) UK Pound Sterling Overnight Index SONIA, source: Refinitiv.
- (5) A (retail) class AMC 0.9% / I (institutional) class AMC 0.7%. (I-class for sums over £1m or at manager's discretion).
- (6) This figure will reduce if the fund increases in size: £30,000 of fixed costs over £10m = 0.30% but only 0.03% over £100m, for example.
- (7) The fund normally only buys and sells positions once a month to keep trading costs as low as possible.

The investment objective of the Fund is to provide capital growth over the medium to long term. The Fund will aim to meet its objectives by employing two primary investment techniques:

1. True diversification which may include exposure to equities, fixed income, commodities, real estate and infrastructure in different jurisdictions throughout the world, primarily using Exchange Traded Funds.
2. Formula-based trend following.

Monthly Commentary (July 2023)

During July the Global Multi Asset Fund appreciated by 0.2%. The trend following signals prompted no purchases during the month and holdings in UK equities, Emerging Market equities and gold were sold. This left the fund defensively positioned and significantly in cash or cash equivalent risk free assets.

During the month the ratings agency Fitch followed Standard and Poor's by downgrading US debt from AAA to AA+. While there is no risk of a US default, the fiscal profligacy of the Biden administration through spending programmes is matched by Trump's own neglect of the public finances by past (and future?) tax cuts. This will drive increasing budget deficits with inflationary consequences.

As discussed in previous commentaries, the question remains whether central banks' anti-inflationary rate tightening cycle has reached its peak. The Federal Reserve Board increased the Federal Funds Rate from 5.5% to 5.75% although in many economies inflation is subsiding: The year on year consumer price index to the end of June had risen by 3.0% in the USA, 3.3% in Japan, 7.9% in the UK, 5.5% in the Euro Area, 6.4% in Germany and 0% in China. The IMF is predicting that the world economy will grow by 3% this year and their GDP forecasts are 1.8% for the USA, 6.3% for China, 1.9% for Japan, 0.4% for the UK and 1.1% for the Euro Area with Germany at -0.5%.

Further rate increases could have recessionary consequences and may be deemed unnecessary as many commodity and energy prices have fallen since the start of the year, though the most recent data suggests some re-acceleration perhaps on account of the recovery of the Chinese economy and the previously reported increase in naval activity in the Black Sea. Several equity markets have been strong so far but bond markets have been universally weak. The interest rate cycle in many places is therefore finely balanced between further monetary contraction and the threat of recession, versus a pause in or end to interest rate rises and the threat of continued inflation which might result.

Key Risks

- Counterparty risk: The Fund can conclude various transactions with contractual partners. If a contractual partner becomes insolvent, it can no longer or can only partly settle unpaid debts owed to the Fund.
 - Market Risk: External factors can cause an entire asset class to decline in value which would result in a decrease in the value of investments. The Fund aims to mitigate this risk by investing in all major asset classes in many geographic regions and owning assets which are often negatively correlated.
 - Concentration Risk: The Fund seeks to minimise concentration risk by owning
- a wide selection of Exchange Traded Funds which themselves own many hundreds of underlying assets.
- Liquidity Risk: adverse market conditions may affect the ability to sell certain assets when necessary. The Fund invests nearly exclusively in large, liquid ETFs so liquidity risk should be significantly lower than in a more conventional actively managed fund investing in single assets.
