[4] This figure will reduce if the fund increases in size: £50,000 of fixed costs over £10m = 0.50% but only 0.05% over £100m. We are targeting total cost of ownership of the fund as close as possible to 1%.

[5] The fund normally only buys and sells positions once a month to keep trading costs as low as possible. This figure was calculated in collaboration with Cantor Fitzgerald and significantly lower than many UK platforms assume.

Monthly Commentary (November 2019)

The fund held the line in November, recovering a very 'tortoisely' 0.2% throughout the course of the month. When we traded, our signals told us to sell out of our European corporate bonds, high yield bonds and emerging market bonds and to buy into energy commodities for the first time since January. This left the fund in 20 of our 24 "risk" asset classes although out of the "riskier" end of our bond holdings.

As I noted in our October update, the behaviour of the pound will likely continue to be a key feature of the next few weeks. Certainly until we are through the UK election at least. As ever, however, in the medium to long term, the fact that we seek to deploy capital in no fewer than 24 highly diversified markets from all over the world should mean that we will be relatively immune to these sorts of news-flow items, dramatic as their impact may be in the short run.

Key Risks

- Counterparty risk: The Fund can conclude various transactions with contractual partners. If a contractual partner becomes insolvent, it can no longer or can only partly settle unpaid debts owed to the Fund.
- Market Risk: External factors can cause an entire asset class to decline in value which would result in a decrease in the value of investments. The Fund aims to mitigate this risk by investing in all major asset classes in many geographic regions and owning assets which are often negatively correlated.
- Concentration Risk: The Fund seeks to minimise concentration risk by owning a wide selection of Exchange Traded

Funds which themselves own many hundreds of underlying assets.

- Liquidity Risk: adverse market conditions may affect the ability to sell certain assets when necessary. The Fund invests nearly exclusively in large, liquid ETFs so liquidity risk should be significantly lower than in a more conventional actively managed fund investing in single assets.
