Notes

- (1) A class accumulation shares, net of fees priced at midday UK time, net dividends reinvested. Source: Valu-Trac Investment Management Ltd.
- (2) MSCI World Index in Sterling, net dividends reinvested, priced at close of business US time, source: MSCI Inc. The MSCI World Index is a generic portfolio of global equities across all sectors and, as such, is a fair comparison given the Fund is also global and sector agnostic.

- (4) UK Pound Sterling Overnight Index SONIA, source: Refinitiv.
- (5) A (retail) class AMC 0.9% / I (institutional) class AMC 0.7%. (I-class for sums over £1m or at manager's discretion).
- (6) This figure will reduce if the fund increases in size: £30,000 of fixed costs over £10m = 0.30% but only 0.03% over £100m, for example.
- (7) The fund normally only buys and sells positions once a month to keep trading costs as low as possible.

The investment objective of the Fund is to provide capital growth over the medium to long term. The Fund will aim to meet its objectives by employing two primary investment techniques:

1. True diversification which may include exposure to equities, fixed income, commodities, real estate and infrastructure in different jurisdictions throughout the world, primarily using Exchange Traded Funds.
2. Formula-based trend following.

Monthly Commentary (November 2022)

The central question is inflation and there are indications that it may be peaking. The Economist all items commodity index is now down 2.1 percent for the year and gold, the inflationary bellwether has shed 1.5 per cent. Which does not undermine the gravity of the situation. Year on year inflation runs at 8.1 per cent in the USA, 8.0 per cent in the UK and 8.5 per cent in the Euro Area. And the causes of this inflation? An inevitable consequence of quantitative easing, higher import costs for energy, raw materials and agricultural products (exacerbated by the Ukraine war) and demographically induced labour shortages.

The situation varies from country to country. The US economy is "red hot", the Euro area is slowing and recession is widely forecast for the UK in 2023. There is not yet a cost-push inflation, though this could be a serious risk for the UK if we are to enter a winter of discontent for 2022/23. Nevertheless there are signs that we may be approaching the worst of inflationary expectations. Ten year government bond yields of 3.7 per cent in the USA, 3.2 per cent in the UK and 1.9 per cent in the Euro area are scarcely alarming. A speech by Jay Powell, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, was widely over-interpreted as a predictor of a moderation in interest rate rises. In the UK a new member of the Monetary Policy Committee is suggesting that ever higher interest rates may not be the right medicine for a largely imported inflation and an economy in the doldrums. We may be witnessing a somewhat more clement environment for risk assets. This is not to ignore the perilous geo-political situation, in particular in Ukraine with Russia's floundering neo-imperialist adventure.

All these considerations have no bearing on the investments of the Global Multi Asset Fund, which are entirely based on market trends. Accordingly, during November the Fund re entered a global equities position and exited holdings in commodities and a residual position in bonds.

For 2022 the Fund has marginally outperformed UK equities and significantly outperformed bonds.

Key Risks

- Counterparty risk: The Fund can conclude various transactions with contractual partners. If a contractual partner becomes insolvent, it can no longer or can only partly settle unpaid debts owed to the Fund.
a wide selection of Exchange Traded Funds which themselves own many hundreds of underlying assets.
  - Market Risk: External factors can cause an entire asset class to decline in value which would result in a decrease in the value of investments. The Fund aims to mitigate this risk by investing in all major asset classes in many geographic regions and owning assets which are often negatively correlated.
  - Concentration Risk: The Fund seeks to minimise concentration risk by owning Liquidity Risk: adverse market conditions may affect the ability to sell certain assets when necessary. The Fund invests nearly exclusively in large, liquid ETFs so liquidity risk should be significantly lower than in a more conventional actively managed fund investing in single assets.
