[4] This figure will reduce if the fund increases in size: £50,000 of fixed costs over £10m = 0.50% but only 0.05% over £100m. We are targeting total cost of ownership of the fund as close as possible to 1%.

[5] The fund normally only buys and sells positions once a month to keep trading costs as low as possible. This figure was calculated in collaboration with Cantor Fitzgerald and significantly lower than many UK platforms assume.

The investment objective of the Fund is to provide capital growth over the medium to long term. The Fund will aim to meet its objectives by employing two primary investment techniques:

1. True diversification which may include exposure to equities, fixed income, commodities, real estate and infrastructure in different jurisdictions throughout the world, primarily using Exchange Traded Funds.
2. Formula-based trend following.

Monthly Commentary (September 2020)

Our signals gave us two moves at the beginning of September - to buy back into Japanese equities and to sell our USD corporate bond exposure.

This left us with the same number of risk silos as we had the previous month; about 45% long and 55% in cash or cash equivalent "risk free assets".

This stance delivered another 0.3% through September - our sixth consecutive month of positive progress. The two main themes faced by markets through the month continued to be the ongoing CV-19 crisis and, increasingly, the looming US presidential election.

With regards to coronavirus, markets are trying to balance concerns over a second wave as we head in to autumn and winter against the chance of a vaccine and, dare we hope, a more considered policy response around the world.

As far as the US election is concerned, it is pretty difficult to know whether market participants would prefer a Trump or a Biden victory but it seems likely that volumes will fall more into year end than in most years as often happens ahead of an election.

As ever, the beauty of our approach is that such considerations do not form any part of our process. Of more interest, to me at least, is that as I write this in early October, this month's signals have given us five new buy trades. This means that we will go through October with 65% of the fund deployed vs. 45% in September. We are "in it to win it" to a greater extent than we have been for most of 2020.

We shall see how this positioning plays out for performance as the month develops.

Key Risks

- Counterparty risk: The Fund can conclude various transactions with contractual partners. If a contractual partner becomes insolvent, it can no longer or can only partly settle unpaid debts owed to the Fund.
a wide selection of Exchange Traded Funds which themselves own many hundreds of underlying assets.
- Market Risk: External factors can cause an entire asset class to decline in value which would result in a decrease in the value of investments. The Fund aims to mitigate this risk by investing in all major asset classes in many geographic regions and owning assets which are often negatively correlated.
- Liquidity Risk: adverse market conditions may affect the ability to sell certain assets when necessary. The Fund invests nearly exclusively in large, liquid ETFs so liquidity risk should be significantly lower than in a more conventional actively managed fund investing in single assets.
- Concentration Risk: The Fund seeks to minimise concentration risk by owning
